

Description: Assistant Professor of Religious Studies, Tenure Track

Starting Date: September 1, 2012

Qualifications: Ph.D. required (in hand). Candidates should be broadly trained in religious studies. Teaching responsibilities include courses offered in Religions of the World (e.g. Asian Religions, Religions of the Contemporary World) and Religion and Culture (e.g. Understanding Religion, Women in Religion). Preference will be given to candidates with research agendas (and teaching experience) in Asian religions. The teaching load is 12 credits per semester (typically, three four-credit courses). The successful candidate will have an interest in interdisciplinary collaboration that will include significant participation in a general education program with an intercultural signature theme, and in supporting a religious studies program organized around Christian traditions, religion and culture, and world religions. Candidates should have a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching and a documented record of professional and scholarly activity.

Rank and Salary: Salary will be based on qualifications and previous experience.

The Program: The Religion and Philosophy Program is part of the Department of History, Politics, and Religion, and is housed within the College of Humanities and Social Sciences. The program offers a major in Religious Studies and minors in both Religious Studies and Philosophy.

The College: The College of Humanities and Social Sciences includes the Department of Communication and Sociology, the Department of Education, the Department of English and Modern Languages, the Department of History, Politics, and Religion, and the Department of Visual and Performing Arts. The College offers a wide range of academic and interdisciplinary programs of study and serves as an integral component of the general education core requirements.

Carroll University: Founded in 1846, Carroll University is an independent, co-educational comprehensive university grounded in the liberal arts tradition. Carroll University is located in suburban Waukesha, 16 miles west of Milwaukee and 60 miles east of Madison. The University serves approximately 3,520 full-time and part-time undergraduate and graduate students. The University though intentionally ecumenical and non-sectarian in approach, is related to the Presbyterian Church, USA, employs a full-time chaplain and provides a spiritual life program

Application: Review of applications will begin December 1st and continue until the position is filled. Please submit as attachments to an email with the subject line "Assistant Professor of Religion" and in Word or PDF format a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching experience, a sample of scholarly writing, and copies of graduate transcripts to facapp@carrollu.edu. Final applicants will be asked to submit three letters of reference.

Carroll University is an Equal-Opportunity Employer.
